Hi Erin!

We got our package right before we left for back to back trips and have not had time to sit down and send a thank you to you (although we have made time to gush over them repeatedly!) - but truthfully, I don't know that there is a thank you big enough for you and for these treasures.

We have always loved capturing our memories through photos, sometimes to the dismay of our friends and family who have to stop every few steps on vacation for this photo op and that photo op. We knew right away that our photos would be one of, if not THE, most important part(s) of our wedding day. The first time I stumbled upon your blog I was head over heels in love with the kind of love you find and the way you make it shine. I knew right then that on my day it would have to be you, and only you, capturing everything.

Our photos have been on the receiving end of much praise, even from people who we don't see very often or know very well who happened to catch them through a friend of a friend or someone who was tagged on Facebook. "Your photos!!! They are amazing!" is often the first thing people think to tell us after "congratulations." They are truly spectacular and we are so grateful that we got to spend such a beautiful day in front of you and your camera.

There is a moment that I speak of often when people ask about you, or pay you and our photos a compliment. We were by the lighthouse, near the end of the day, and you were getting particularly excited about one shot. You were nearly overwhelmed with joy and you stopped for a second, lowered your camera, and said, "This is what I love. This moment is already gone, but what I think about is 20 years from now, when you will still have it." That is exactly why we chose you. Everyone can feel that through your work. You feel so many things on a day like that, and you basically bottled it up for us forever. How could thank you possibly be enough for a gift like that?

From our family photos, to the sweet candids, to every "Bobbi face" you captured, we are now armed with a whole pile of memories from a seriously magical day in our journey together. And since there are no other words that will do, thank you, from the bottom of our hearts. Keep doing what you do. Everyone who ever chooses you... We are the lucky ones.

XOXO
